

SONDER Directors

Berlin-based directing duo formed by Sascha and Vladimir in 2017. They cultivated a diverse indie-film aesthetic, which highly relies on its authentic characters.

While Sascha studied audiovisual media design and worked as camera operator and editor for various commercial projects, Vladimir spent years on film sets and took a detour into the theatre world where he worked as Assistant Director until he decided to return to commercial filmmaking.

With individual ideas but a unified goal, they both combine fire and ice, Amblin and Bruckheimer, heart and machine. They distil their work from what surrounds them and try to find unique stories in what seems like the everyday. Finally they spice it with a pinch of genre, a slice of humour, a tight bond with their protagonists and a great sense for adventure that makes loosely scripted scenarios feel like a larger than life cinematic experience.

Together they direct and operate the camera for commercials and branded content, work with actors and non-professionals, and love to sing along to Disney soundtracks.
